

Richard Kindred

Assistant Solicitor

Richard was educated at Methodist College Belfast and is a graduate of the University of Sheffield (LLB Hons Law) and the Institute of Professional Legal Studies at Queen's University (CPLS). Richard joined Cleaver Fulton Rankin in September 2005 as a trainee and was admitted as a solicitor in Northern Ireland in October 2007.

Richard is an Assistant Solicitor in the Company Commercial Department.

Key Transactions

Richard has experience of being involved and providing legal support in a variety of corporate and commercial transactions including business sales and acquisitions and joint venture transactions.

Corporate Law experience includes restructuring projects, incorporations and providing advice in relation to the internal governance of companies limited by shares and by guarantee, management companies and LLP's. Richard provides general corporate and company secretarial support services to a range of local and international businesses.

In relation to Commercial Law, Richard advises on terms and conditions of business and supply of goods and services, franchise agreements and partnership agreements.

Richard also advises on Banking Law including taking and providing security for lenders and borrowers, checking title and the drafting of security documentation.

Professional Associations and Qualifications

Member of the Law Society of Northern Ireland

Member of the Northern Ireland Company Commercial Lawyers Group